

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	xiii
Abbreviations	xv
Preface	xvii

INTRODUCTION	1
I. Orientation	1
II. Outline of the Study	3
III. Historicity, Fiction and the Genre of Acts	5
IV. The Problem of Classification	7
V. The Rational of Classifying	9

Part I METHODOLOGY

Chapter 1
PRELIMINARIES	13
I. My Location in the Debate	13
II. Unity with Luke's Gospel	15
III. Preface	20
IV. 'We' Passages	23
V. Dating	26
VI. Sources	27
a. The Sources of Acts	28
b. Literary Artistry and the Negative Search for Coherence	31
c. MacDonald's Intertextually Founded Coherence in Acts 10.1–11.18	35
d. Modern Approaches to the Source Question	36
e. Coherence as the Acid Test	37
VII. Textual Problems	39
VIII. Terminology	40
a. Author/Implied Author	40
b. Target Audience/Ideal Reader	41
c. Intentionality	44
d. Mode	46
e. Narrative Configuration and Narrative Coherence	47

Chapter 2

A SURVEY OF GENRE PROPOSALS	48
I. Introduction	48
II. A Look at Some Proposals	49
a. Acts as an Apologetic History	49
b. Acts as an Institutional History	53
c. Acts and the Ancient Bios	56
d. Acts and the Historical Monograph	59
e. Acts and Epic	60
f. Acts and the Novel	62
III. Pick a Box, Any Box: The Options So Far	67

Chapter 3

THE THEORY OF GENRE	70
I. Introduction	70
II. Genre, Classification, Hybridity	71
a. Pure Forms and Popular Texts	75
b. The Process of Generic Change	77
III. Genre, Conventions, Expectations	79
a. Intertextual Signposting, the Expectation of Relevance and the Cognitive Environment	81
b. Multicultural Literary Environments and Intertextual Dialogue	83
c. Modern and Ancient Literary Styles	84
IV. Generic Hybridisation in Interpretation	89
V. Conclusion: Genre and Narrative Coherence	92

Chapter 4

HISTORY AND FICTION	95
I. Introduction	95
a. An Overview of the Theoretical Problem	96
II. Fiction and Cognition	98
a. History as Constrained Narrative	100
III. The Conventions of Reading	102
a. Propositional versus Poetic Implicatures	105
b. The Hebrew Bible and the Rhetoric of Historicity	108
1. Acts and Inspired History	110
2. Heliodorus and the Rhetoric of Realism	113
3. The Open Text and the Septuagint	114
IV. Conclusion to Part I: The Creation of a Cognitive Environment for Acts	117

Part II
THE STUDIES

INTRODUCTION TO PART II:	123
CONFIGURING THE NARRATIVE OF ACTS	123
I. Introduction	123
II. Intertext and Convention: From Beginning to End	123
a. A Note on Method (or the Lack Thereof)	124
b. Confusion and Convention in the Preface to Acts	125
III. Acts 1.1-11: Dropped into a Dream	127
a. Transition and Displacement	127
1. Verse 4	127
2. Verse 6	128
 Chapter 5
THE AMBIGUOUS ORACLE IN ACTS 1.6	132
I. The Oracle and the Plot	132
a. The Outline of the Plot: 1.6-8	132
b. Question and Answer in Acts 1.6-8	135
c. The Trouble with the Answer	137
d. Jewish Mission: Ups and Downs	140
II. Paul's Role	143
a. Arbiter of the Divine Will	143
b. A Final Twist	145
c. The Third Attempt	145
III. Support from Oracular Literature	146
a. Legendary/Historical Oracles	146
b. Literary Oracles	148
c. Foundation Narratives	150
IV. Conclusion	151
 Chapter 6
THE CONFIGURATION OF PAUL'S APOSTOLIC STATUS	154
I. Introduction	154
II. Paul as Apostle in Scholarship	155
a. Luke's Portrayal of Paul	159
b. The Construction of Pauline Christianity	160
III. Paul's Parallels	162
a. The Magician (8.9-24/13.5-12)	163
b. Healing of a Lame man (3.1-26/14.8-18)	164
c. Delivery from Prison (12.3-17/16.1-40)	165
d. Vicarious Healing (5.15/19.11-17)	166

IV.	The Compound Argument: The Example of Socrates	167
V.	Apostolic Status	169
	a. Divine Election	169
	b. Witnessing and Sending Out	170
	c. Barnabas as Apostle?	171
	d. The Election of Matthias and its Narrative Value	172
VI.	Refraction of Intentionality and Configurative Value	174
	a. Refraction and Citation	176
VII.	Luke's Narrative Argument: A Summary	177
VIII.	Parallels in Ancient Literature	180
IX.	Conclusion	181

Chapter 7

COMEDY AND CHARACTERISATION IN ACTS	183
I. Introduction: The Bible and Comedy	183
a. Comedy in the Bible and Comedy in Acts	183
II. Humorous Episodes in Acts	184
a. Healing at Lystra (14.8-20)	185
b. The Sons of Sceva	186
c. The Riot at Ephesus	187
d. Told You So	189
e. The Eutychus Episode	189
III. The Problem of the Miletus Speech: Acts 20.17-38	192
IV. An Analysis of the Speech	195
a. Talking	195
b. Immodesty	197
1. Homeric Parody	199
c. Rhetoric	200
1. Repetition	201
2. Pathos and Tears	203
3. Flowery Phrases	204
d. The Conclusion to the Speech	206
V. Some Parallels	207
a. A Similar Episode in Acts	207
b. Parallels in the Wider Milieu	208
VI. Conclusion	211

Chapter 8

SUMMARY AND CONCLUSIONS	214
I. Summary	214
II. Conclusions	217
a. The Narratives That Make Acts Acts	217

b. The Narrative Coherence of Acts	218
1. The Importance of Paul to Acts	219
c. Sources and Narrative Coherence	219
d. Genre and Methodological Strategies	220
III. Potential Avenues of Future Research	220
Bibliography	222
Index of References	234
Index of Authors	239