

Contents

Foreword	9
The Gastronomic Man/Homo Gastronomicus	11
Needs	12
Edibility	12
Availability	13
Senses	13
Gastronomic reflections	14
Gastronomy as a science	15
The physiology of thirst	16
Sociological gastronomy	16
Religious beliefs and meals	20
Table manners, seating lists and tableware	22
Meals as events	27
Colour	27
Light	28
Sound	29
Design	29
Menus	30
Egypt	33
Population	33
Agriculture and livestock (an overview)	34
Sweeteners	60
Fruits	61
Vegetables	63
Oil	67
Storage	70
Grains and bread	73
Diet, social classes and sacrifices	81
The kitchen and its equipment	86
Beverages	88
Wine	91
Wine as offerings	98
Gardens	101
The creations of Garden designs	102
The season cycle	105
Trade	111
Greece	115
Early Agriculture	117
Distribution	118
Consumption	122
Animals	129
Dairy products	136
Bread and cakes	138
The God of wine and the beverage	141
Beer and other fermented beverages	150
The olive and its oil	150
Honey	153

Vegetables and fruits	154
Preparation	158
Cuisine, social class and feasting	159
Cooking, kitchens and its equipment	164
Dining room utensils	168
Cooks	168
Gardens	169
Imperium Romanum	173
Agriculture	173
Distribution	176
Bread	178
Wine	180
Beer	184
The olive and its oil	188
Animals	191
Fish and seafood dishes	192
Snails	196
Meat dishes	197
Birds	209
Sauces and gravies	214
Fungi	219
Sweets	220
Military diet	221
Meals	225
Inns, bars and restaurants	226
Kitchen and its equipment	231
Dining room and its utensils	234
Cooks	238
Gardens	241
Luristan	259
Nomadism	259
Domestic animals	261
Hunting	262
Agriculture	263
Cooking and food storage	264
The Muslim World	271
Muhammad and the birth of Islam	272
After the passing of Muhammad	274
The Umayyad and Abbasid Caliphates	275
The Sultanates	276
Sufism	277
Agriculture and cultivation	278
Trade	282
Food of the pre-Islamic Arabs and Islam on food and drink	284
Food in the traditional Muslim world	291
Food and water in the cities (Middle Ages)	293
The kitchen and staff	296
Cookery ware and hygiene	301
Utensils, stoves and the cook	302
Colours and flavors	305
Meals and courses	306
Culinary books	307
The Islamic conquest and their effects on viticulture	316
Irrigation	320
The gardens	323
Closing discussion	331
References	341