

Contents

List of figures	xiii
List of tables	xvi
List of contributors	xvii
Editor's foreword: Jeffrey Ian Ross	xxvii
Foreword: graffiti, street art and the politics of complexity: Jeff Ferrell	xxx
Acknowledgements	xxxix

Introduction: sorting it all out Jeffrey Ian Ross	1
---	---

PART I

History, types, and writers/artists of graffiti and street art 11

1 Ancient graffiti J.A. Baird and Claire Taylor	17
2 Trains, railroad workers and illegal riders: the subcultural world of hobo graffiti John F. Lennon	27
3 The history of freight train graffiti in North America Robert Donald Weide	36
4 Deconstructing gang graffiti Susan A. Phillips	48
5 Prison inmate graffiti Jacqueline Z. Wilson	61
6 Ways of being seen: gender and the writing on the wall Jessica N. Pabón	78
7 Research and theory on latrinalia Adam Trahan	92

8	Yarn bombing – the softer side of street art Minna Haveri	103
9	Straight from the underground: New York City’s legal graffiti writing culture Ronald Kramer	113
10	American Indian graffiti Favian Martín	124
PART II Theoretical explanations of graffiti and street art/ causes of graffiti and street art		137
11	Graffiti and street art as ornament Rafael Schacter	141
12	Graffiti, street art and the divergent synthesis of place valorisation in contemporary urbanism Andrea Mubi Brighenti	158
13	Graffiti art and the city: from piece-making to place-making Graeme Evans	168
14	Something for the boys? Exploring the changing gender dynamics of the graffiti subculture Nancy Macdonald	183
15	The psychology behind graffiti involvement Myra F. Taylor, Julie Ann Pooley, and Georgia Carragher	194
16	Graffiti and the subculture career Gregory J. Snyder	204
PART III Regional/municipal variations/differences of graffiti and street art		215
17	From the city walls to ‘Clean Trains’: graffiti in New York City, 1969–1990 Joe A. Austin	223

18	“Boost or blight?” Graffiti writing and street art in the “new” New Orleans Doreen Piano	234
19	Pop culture and politics: graffiti and street art in Montréal Anna Wacławek	247
20	The battle for public space along the Mapocho River, Santiago de Chile, 1964–2014 Rodney Palmer	258
21	London calling: contemporary graffiti and street art in the UK’s capital Jeffrey Ian Ross	272
22	Graffiti and street art in Paris David Fieni	288
23	From Marx to Merkel: political muralism and street art in Lisbon Ricardo Campos	301
24	The field of graffiti and street art in post-January 2011 Egypt Mona Abaza	318
25	Wall talk: Palestinian graffiti Julie Peteet	334
26	Graffiti/street art in Tokyo and surrounding districts Hidetsugu Yamakoshi and Yasumasa Sekine	345
27	Claiming spaces for urban art images in Beijing and Shanghai Minna Valjakka	357
28	Contesting transcultural trends: emerging self-identities and urban art images in Hong Kong Minna Valjakka	372
	PART IV
	Effects of graffiti and street art	389
29	How major urban centers in the United States respond to graffiti/ street art Jeffrey Ian Ross	393

Contents

30	New York City's moral panic over graffiti: normalizing neoliberal penalty and paving the way for growth machines Ronald Kramer	404
31	Stealing from the public: the value of street art taken from the street Peter Bengtson	416
32	How American movies depict graffiti and street art Jeffrey Ian Ross	429
33	Challenging the defense of graffiti, in defense of graffiti Stefano Bloch	440
34	Does copyright law protect graffiti and street art? Danwill D. Schwender	452
35	Graffiti, street art, and the evolution of the art market Maia Morgan Wells	464
	Glossary	475
	Chronology	480
	Index	483