

How was evil portrayed in the Second Temple period and the earliest centuries of Christianity? This collection of essays by an international group of scholars, originating with a 2014 conference at St Mary's University in Twickenham, represents the cutting edge of scholarship on portrayals of evil during this time.