

Contents

List of figures	xi
List of tables	xii
Contributors	xiii
Series editor's preface	xvi
Acknowledgements	xviii

Introduction: international marriages of Southeast Asian women through the lens of citizenship	1
ASUNCION FRESNOZA-FLOT AND GWÉNOLA RICORDEAU

PART I

Contact paths and routes to family formation 23

- 1 Marriage migration as a pathway to citizenship: Filipina brides, economic security, and ideas of global hypergamy 25
JULIA MESZAROS
- 2 Time-embedded marital citizenship: Thai migrant women and their mixed unions in Belgium 41
ASUNCION FRESNOZA-FLOT

PART II

The politics of love and desire 57

- 3 Reconciling marital citizenship in Malaysia through activism: gender, motherhood, and belongingness 59
LOW CHOO CHIN

- 4 The 'mail-order bride' stigma: intermarried Filipino women and the Philippine public and political debates 78
GWÉNOLA RICORDEAU
- 5 Female migrant spouses as deserving subjects of rights: migrant women and Taiwan's gender-equal courtrooms 92
HSIU-YU (TORI) FAN

PART III

Settlement and multifaceted roles in a new land 119

- 6 Postcolonial desires, partial citizenship, and transnational 'un-mothers': contexts and lives of Filipina marriage migrants in Japan 121
NOBUE SUZUKI
- 7 Stigmatized love, boundary-making, and the heroic love myth: Filipina women constructing relationships with US military men within and beyond the legal framework 140
VICTORIA REYES
- 8 She cares because she is a mother: the intersection of citizenship and motherhood of Southeast Asian immigrant women in Taiwan 158
ISABELLE CHENG
- 9 A two-step social integration model for transnational marriage migrants in Taiwan and South Korea: 'marital family first, host society second' 176
HSIN-CHIEH CHANG
- Conclusion: making sense of international marriages 196
ASUNCION FRESNOZA-FLOT AND GWÉNOLA RICORDEAU