

Contents

Map	ix
Tables	x
Image	xi
Acknowledgements	xii
Abbreviations	xv
Glossary	xvi
Note on transliterations and translations	xviii
Introduction	1
1 Memories, swords, blood and freedom: when independence came to India and Pakistan	13
The 1947 March to May communal violence and the early flows of refugees	13
Translating the 'big political ideas' at stake into practice	17
Moulding both personal and political identities out of the Partition mayhem	22
Moving towards freedom	25
Making sense of the official narrative and figures	28
2 Camps, homes, towns and villages	45
'There's no place like home': the politics of intimacy, domesticity and resettlement among West Punjabi refugees	45
Liminalities of citizenship: refugee camps and temporary structures	46
Elective affinities: refugees, homes, domesticity and belonging	51

	From homes to towns and cities: refugees and the negotiation of urban space and identity	58
	Something old, something new and something borrowed: the rural resettlement of refugees in Pakistani Punjab	65
3	Patronage, bureaucratic unruliness and the resettling of Partition refugees in everyday Pakistani Punjab	79
	Overthrowing the king: challenging Pakistani bureaucracy's strengths	80
	Powerful friends, influential acquaintances: conceptualising Pakistani bureaucracy	87
	Ersatz bureaucracy for people on the brink of marginality	91
	Turning political? Administrative failures and political demands	96
4	Punjab Assembly, party seats, electoral boxes	105
	Pawns in a political game: refugees, electoral rules and competitions and the politics of West Punjab's stability	105
	Pieces at the beginning of the game: engineering a new electoral system	106
	The king's jewels: defining parties' dynamics	111
	With friends like these . . . : checkmating political rivals	117
	The after-match party of the 1951 elections	123
5	Constituent Assembly and neighbours	133
	Self-portraits in spherical mirrors: Partition refugees and the elaboration of the 'basic (dis)order' of Pakistan	133
	All that glitters is not gold: refugees, resettlement policies and the challenge of creating an everyday state	134
	Until death tears us apart: Pakistan, India and the resettlement of refugees in West Punjab	145
	All for one and one for all: creating a nation, levelling down differences	149
	Conclusion	159
	Appendix: note on primary sources	165
	Index	171