

'Vondey's analysis deftly maps and defines the burgeoning field of Pentecostal theology, helping readers to comprehend important landmarks of the past, significant signals of the present and the emergent signposts for the future. This book calls for serious conversations across theological divides in the academy, representing entirely new realities beyond the norms of Pentecostal systematic theology. Vondey challenges the theological academy as it reveals new dimensions of thought, corresponding to a hidden reality both within extant, regnant Pentecostal scholarship and within concrete beliefs and practices of everyday Pentecostalism. This is Vondey's best and most mature work thus far.'

NIMI WARIBOKO, BOSTON UNIVERSITY, USA

'A wonderfully wide-ranging and well-structured account of Pentecostal theology, showing how the traditional spiritual themes beloved by Pentecostals resound in many of the great theological issues of our day - the environment, the future, healing, ecumenical cooperation, humanitarian activity and the nature of the church. Students of many kinds - including those located at any point of the Pentecostal/charismatic spectrum - will benefit from reading this book.'

WILLIAM K. KAY DD, WREXHAM GLYNDWR UNIVERSITY, UK

'With remarkable clarity, Wolfgang Vondey identifies and promotes a winsome Pentecostal theology. Vondey crafts this marvellous and important book using the logic of Pentecost and accounting for the full gospel narrative. The force of this Pentecostal account will be felt for many years to come.'

THOMAS JAY OORD, NORTHWEST NAZARENE UNIVERSITY, USA

'Vondey has methodologically integrated story (the Fivefold Gospel) and symbol (Pentecost) into his constructive theology, producing a vibrant, rich, mature, ecumenical, informative and distinctly authentic Pentecostal theology grounded in its diverse spirituality and unique story.'

KENNETH J. ARCHER, SOUTHEASTERN UNIVERSITY, USA

Wolfgang Vondey is Reader in Contemporary Christianity and Pentecostal Studies and Director of the Centre for Pentecostal and Charismatic Studies at the University of Birmingham, UK.