

Contents

List of Figures	page ix
List of Tables	xi
Acknowledgements	xiii
Notes on the Text	xvii
List of Abbreviations	xix
Introduction: The Reformation of the Decalogue	I
PART I THE CIVIL OFFICE OF THE LAW	15
1 Law	18
Introduction	18
Species of Law	20
Numbering the Commandments	28
The Second Commandment	36
Catholics, Protestants, and the Decalogue	48
Blessings and Curses of the Law	56
The Third Commandment	64
Conclusions	69
2 Order	72
Introduction	72
Heavenly Authority and Earthly Government	76
The Fifth Commandment	89
The Duty of Care	104
Justice and Punishment	112
The Seventh Commandment	122
Conclusions	129

PART II	THE EVANGELICAL OFFICE OF THE LAW	133
3	Sin	135
	Introduction	135
	The Depth of Sin	138
	The Tenth Commandment	141
	The Breadth of Sin	149
	The Sixth Commandment	157
	The Knowledge of Sin	163
	Conclusions	172
4	Salvation	177
	Introduction	177
	Repentance	179
	Faith	186
	The First Commandment	192
	Rejecting the Law?	198
	Perfecting the Law	206
	Conclusions	212
PART III	THE PRACTICAL OFFICE OF THE LAW	217
5	The Godly	220
	Introduction: The Problem with Puritans	220
	Puritans, Pharisees, and the Charge of 'Legalism'	224
	Sin, Sacraments, and the 'Puritan Penitential Cycle'	233
	The Fourth Commandment	245
	Puritans and the Decalogue	256
	Dwelling Amongst the 'Wicked'	265
	The Ninth Commandment	274
	Conclusions	278
6	The 'Ungodly'	281
	Introduction	281
	Liturgy and Music	283
	Commandment Boards I: Text, Form, and Position	297
	Commandment Boards II: Royal Arms, Decoration, and Illustration	317
	The Eighth Commandment	331
	Popular Belief and Practice	336
	Conclusions	343
	Conclusion: The Ten Commandments in England, c.1485–c.1625	345
	Bibliography	355
	Index	383