

Contents

LIST OF CONTRIBUTORS	ix
LIST OF ILLUSTRATIONS	xi
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS	xiii
INTRODUCTION	I
Elizabethanne Boran
1 Readers or collectors? Manuscripts and books in the lives of Irish scholars in late seventeenth-century Connacht
Bernadette Cunningham	24
2 A tale of two seventeenth-century libraries: the books and world views of a Limerick patrician family and a Cork landowner
Marc Caball	45
3 The Otway-Maurice collection: ecclesiastical collecting in late seventeenth- to mid-eighteenth-century Ireland
Barbara McCormack	61
4 Dr Edward Worth: a connoisseur book collector in early eighteenth-century Dublin
Elizabethanne Boran	80
5 James Hardiman: book collector
Marie Boran	104
6 Collection by donation: the benefactors' registers of Oxford college libraries in the seventeenth century
William Poole	116
7 Motives for book collecting in late seventeenth-century England
David Pearson	138

8	‘Calculated for instruction and entertainment’: lending libraries in Georgian Leeds Rebecca Bond	149
9	‘The finest theological library in the world’: the rise and fall of the Bibliotheca Sussexiana Gabriel Moshenska	168
10	A family of readers in eighteenth-century Scotland: the Areskines of Alva and their books Karen Baston	188
11	The country house library in Scotland Mark Purcell	206
12	The library as a weapon of state: the pamphlet collection of Gaspar Fagel in Trinity College, Dublin Andrew Pettegree and Arthur der Weduwen	223
	INDEX	237