

CONTENTS

List of Illustrations	ix
Acknowledgements	xv
Abbreviations	xix
Introduction	1
Images and English Political Culture	5
1 Imagining Power in Angevin England	19
John of Salisbury and the Problem of Tyranny	21
Political Thought in the Windows at Canterbury Cathedral	27
Life at Court: Hell on Earth	39
Images of the Defeated Tyrant at Canterbury and Elsewhere	42
Imagining Becket at Canterbury and Elsewhere	54
Late Twelfth-Century Understandings of Power: Images and Words	58
2 From the Clerics to the Court, c. 1200–1250	60
Political Thought within and beyond the Schools	61
Crusading Warfare and the Great Seal	70
‘Living Stones’ of Church and State	87
Heroes of the English Struggle for Liberty	94
Exemplars of Virtuous Rulership: St Edmund and St Edward	101
Myths of Magna Carta, Practicalities of Reform	107

3	The Barons' War and the Dreams of Reformers	115
	Clerical Political Thought in the Era of Baronial Reform	117
	Baronial Plans and Propaganda	125
	Simon de Montfort, the Living Stone	129
	Visual Political Debates in the Lambeth Apocalypse	131
	Shields of the Devil: Mocking Simon de Montfort in Three Royal Manuscripts	143
	The Death of Tyrants at Westminster	154
	The Cantilupe Tomb: A Monument to the Barons' War?	157
	Thinking about Politics in Thirteenth-Century England	162
4	Visions of Government during the Three Edwards	163
	The Commendatio lamentabilis	165
	New Visions of National History in Edwardian England	169
	History in Rolls and Folios	174
	New Advice for Princes: The Treatise of Walter of Milemete	196
	New Visions of Power: The Great Seal	213
	Changes to English State and Society	216
	Ancient Fears and Holy Tyrannicide	222
	Edwardian Understandings of Power	236
	Conclusion	237
	Bibliography	241
	Index	270