1. Welcome

In a brief ‘Welcome’ address, the SM-Division President welcomed all participants in the Virtual meeting, presented the above agenda of the business meeting, and invited all participants to actively engage in the upcoming discussions during this meeting.

2. EGU2022

A short presentation of the main activities of seismology the EGU2022.

3. Awards & Medals

Reminder given for nominations and the simple methodology to do it – thanks Thomas for the slides. The meeting participants were alerted to the deadline of June 15, 2020, for nominating the 2021 Outstanding Young Scientists and Beno Gutenberg medallist.

In the Seismology Division, Yehuda Ben-Zion is the awardee of the Beno Gutenberg Medal this year. Caroline Eakin is the recipient of the Division Outstanding Young Scientist award.

The proposition to establish a Committee last year was accepted and the Composition of the Committee for the 2023 ECS award 2023 is the following: The president (chair) of the SM division and the two last ECS awardees.

4. Structure of the Seismology Division

Alice Gabriel has been elected in November 2021 President-elect of the Seismology Division. She will be officially started the Deputy Position of the Division from the GA of EGU (next week). She will keep this position until EGU GA 2023, when she will take over the Presidency position. Philippe Jousset the present president will then take the Deputy position, until a new candidate would like to present him/her self to the deputy position.

5. Meeting and Session Statistics & Planning for 2022

The SM-Division President presented the meeting statistics for 2022, with material provided by the GA PC Chair, Peter Van den Beek).

The total number of abstracts at EGU decreased by 8%, however, the number of abstracts in SM lead session increased by 20% which is good news!

6. Report from the ECS team

Andreas Brotzer (Blog Editor)

The ECS Team presented their very numerous activities (blog, Twitter, Facebook).

7. Any other business

EGU Journal “Solid Earth” was advertised.

Question:

A suggestion of special issue for seismology could be proposed.

Answer:

Good idea. Example last year of a special issue of Fibre optic in earth sciences.

Anyone interested with an idea is suggested to request procedure to the executive editors for topic and first list of papers (at least 5 anticipated papers mentioned, exact number should be asked to the executive editors).
