Get deep vendor consolidation for your fleet of HP and Zebra devices under one MPS contract

For many businesses, developing clear strategies for understanding current costs is emerging as a top priority. Ultimately, the goal is to achieve total cost management across the enterprise. As a result, when it comes to managed print services, companies want to invest in fewer, stronger relationships with trusted vendors. At the same time, these primary vendors must have the flexibility to support a variety of brands that deliver business-critical capabilities.

Count on HP flexibility

HP MPS helps you seamlessly integrate reliable and secure print solutions into your unique business. HP's broad portfolio of A3/A4 managed devices offers right-sized and right-fit devices for your needs. And for further print environment optimisation, you can include Zebra devices in your HP MPS contract. HP's management of the functionality and security of Zebra devices is unmatched in the industry.

HP MPS lets you choose from a modular and flexible set of managed services for device maintenance, supplies management, and remote management and diagnostic services. With HP's professional services, you can improve print security, business intelligence, and more.

Depend on a solution that's right for you

No matter what your industry, HP and Zebra have a right-sized solution for your business. HP and Zebra devices are designed to withstand the rigours of your day-to-day business operations.

For example, HP Healthcare Solutions and Zebra fit-for-purpose technology deliver integrated healthcare solutions and services for a safer, smarter, and secured clinical environment.

Count on just-in-time supplies[4]

Get Zebra supplies right when you need them with remote monitoring of Zebra devices. Available for the majority of the Zebra supplies portfolio—including labels, ribbons, wristbands, receipts, and printheads—automated supplies management helps avoid the frustration and time spent ordering depleted supplies. Increase efficiency and satisfaction for end users, while helping to lower operating and support costs.

Automated supplies management also minimises the amount of stock you need on hand, shrinking your overall supplies inventory. That means you'll no longer have to deal with ordering delays or pay for costly rush orders.
